

Why we are here

The Primrose Centre fulfills a huge need in supporting hundreds of visitors diagnosed each year with breast cancer. Visitors come from a large geographical area within London and the South East.

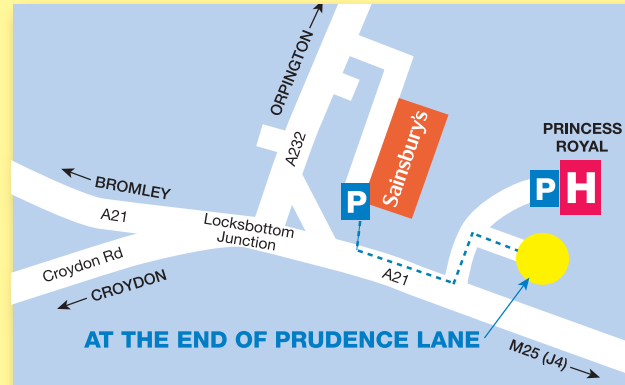

The charity does not make a charge for therapies but is enormously grateful for donations which provide services now and into the future. We also welcome offers of fundraising on our behalf.

If you or someone you know has been diagnosed with breast cancer we are pleased to help you through your recovery just ask and we will be there for you every step of the way.
